Bill Gates has been crapping on the competition and the buying public from the word "GO". He doesn't leave a choice to anyone. I resented the way that he screwed Netscape and then tried to force people to use his Internet program without any choice. This scum ball has destroyed more companies than you could possibly name. Even the computer manufacturer's have little choice in how they place software on their products. He has also forced the software magazine's to use his product article descriptions to the detriment of any competitor. Don't let up on him.
